50X1-HUM

1. The Chinese Communists and the Soviets agreed [] to assign high-ranking officers to a committee which will study measures to be adopted jointly for mutual military action in event of a third World War. [] These measures will be based on experience in Korea. The name of the committee is the Joint Sino-Soviet Military Affairs Study Committee (中蘇合軍研究委員會). It will be in Peiping and will have a president, a vice-president and from 15 to 19 members.
2. Primary duties of the committee will be to gather materials and reports concerning strategy, tactics and combat operations on the Korean front. This will include effectiveness of naval, air and ground forces of both belligerents as demonstrated in actual campaigns, fire power and effectiveness of arms used, and the tactics of each campaign. Data will be studied by sub-committees which will formulate plans for improving national defense and propose changes in the present organization and relationship. A secondary duty will be to discuss the success and failure of the various Korean campaigns as indicated in data supplied by the Chinese Communist staff in an advisory capacity.
3. LIU Po-ch'eng will serve as president of the joint committee, together with seven generals designated by the Chinese Communist chief of staff, the Naval, Air Force, Ground Force, and Supply and Service Commands of the Chinese Communist Army. The USSR will designate a major general to serve as vice-president, plus six other generals or colonels.
